(See Para 2 of Introductory)

Order No. 11/6/59-Sct. IV, dated the 23rd April, 1960 setting up the Commission and its terms of reference.

In pursuance of the provisions contained in article 339 of the Constitution, the President is hereby pleased to appoint a Commission (to be called the Scheduled Areas and Scheduled Tribes Commission) consisting of the following members:—

- (1) Shri U. N. Dhebar, who shall be the Chairman of the Commission.
- (2) Shri D. Basumatari, M.P.
- (3) Shri H. C. Heda, M.P.
- (4) Shri Jaipal Singh, M.P.
- (5) Shri T. Sanganna, M.P.
- (6) Shri Manikyalal Verma, M.P.
- (7) Shri Narayan Rao M. Wadiwa, M.P.
- (8) Shri Subodh Hansda, M.P.
- (9) Shri D. J. Naik.
- (10) Shri Dharam Dev Shastri.
- (11) Dr. Verrier Elwin.

2. The Scheduled Areas and Scheduled Tribes Commission shall report on—

- (a) the administration of the Scheduled Areas under the Fifth Schedule to the Constitution, and, in particular, as to
 - (i) the functioning of the Tribes Advisory Councils;
 - (ii) the laws applicable to the Scheduled Areas and the exercise by the Governors concerned of powers under paragraph 5 of the Fifth Schedule; and
 - (iii) the principles to be followed in declaring any territory to be, or to form part of, a Scheduled Area, or directing that any territory shall cease to be, or cease to form part of, a Scheduled Area;
- (b) the welfare of the Scheduled Tribes in the States and, in particular, whether the development plans in relation to matters connected with the welfare of Scheduled Tribes require any alteration in respect of objectives, priorities or details of working; and
- (c) any other matter connected with the administration of Scheduled Areas or the welfare of the Scheduled Tribes in the States which may hereafter be specifically referred to the Commission for investigation and report.

3. The Commission may—

- (a) obtain such information as they may consider necessary or relevant for their purpose from the Central Government, the State Governments and such other authorities, organisations or individuals as may, in the opinion of the Commission, be of assistance in their work;
- (b) appoint such and so many sub-committees from amongst their members as the Commission may think fit for the purpose of exercising such powers and performing such duties as may be delegated to them by the Commission;
- (c) visit or depute any sub-committee to visit such parts of India as the Commission may consider necessary or expedient;
- (d) hold their sitting or the sittings of any sub-committee at such times and such places as may be determined by or under the authority of the Chairman.
- (e) act notwithstanding the temporary absence of any member of the Commission or the existence of any vacancy among the members; and
- (f) regulate their own procedure in so far as no provision is made in this Order in that behalf.

4. The Commission shall consider the evidence obtained by them and make their report to the President as soon as may be practicable, but not later than the 31st day of December, 1960.

By Order of the President,
V. VISWANATHAN, Special Secretary.

Questionnaire issued by the commission

PART A

CRITERIA FOR DECLARING AN AREA AS A SCHEDULED AREA OR FOR DE-SCHEDULING A SCHEDULED AREA.

(i) Criteria for declaring an area as a Scheduled Area

Scheduled Areas have been defined in the Indian Constitution as such areas as the President may by order declare to be Scheduled Areas. In pursuance of this Constitutional provision, the President, has by Orders called "the Scheduled Areas (Part A States) Order, 1950" and "the Scheduled Areas (Part B States) Order, 1950", set out the Scheduled Areas in the the States. They are shown in Appendix to this questionnaire (not printed). Before determining the areas to be classified as such, the Constituent Assembly appointed a Sub-Committee called the "Excluded and Partially Excluded Areas Sub-Committee". Schedule B of its recommendations forms the basis of the Presidential Orders. While its recommendations do not lay down separately the principles followed for determining the Scheduled Areas, it appears from the Report of the Sub-Committee that reliance was placed upon the following among other considerations:—

- (1) Strict necessity, the extent of the areas being as limited as possible, consistently with the needs of tribal population.
- (2) Preponderance of tribal population.
- (3) Reasonableness of the size to make possible the application of any special legislation susceptible without inconvenience to special administrative treatment to the areas.
- (4) Compactness.

As regards preponderance, while no percentage was fixed, it appears from a study of the Report of the Sub-Committee that the majority of the members had in view a certain proportion though of course they had not adhered rigidly to the same. For instance, they excluded some districts in Bihar and Bengal which had nearly one-third of tribal population. It also appears from this report that they had also regard to other considerations such as stage of advancement and degree of assimilation. It will thus be seen that Scheduled Areas have been demarcated on the basis of predominance of tribal population. They were susceptible to special administrative treatment without inconvenience. It is ten years since these constitutional provisions have been in existence and it is, therefore, desirable to define the principles to be followed in future for declaring any territory to be or to form part of a Scheduled Area or directing that any territory shall cease to be or cease to form part of a Scheduled Area.

1. (a) What according to you should be the criteria for declaring any area as a Scheduled Area ? Should it be:—

- (i) Strict necessity;

- (ii) Preponderance of tribal population;
- (iii) Reasonableness of the size;
- (iv) Susceptibility to special administrative treatment without inconvenience; and
- (v) Compactness?

(b) Do you advise taking into consideration all or any of the following factors in addition to the above:—

- (i) Inaccessibility of the area;
- (ii) Exclusiveness and distinctive way of life of the tribal population;
- (iii) Marked disparity in economic standards in relation to the people of the surrounding area;
- (iv) Marked disparity in the level of education;
- (v) Stage of advancement and degree of assimilation;
- (vi) Comparative development of non-tribal population to the tribal population; and
- (vii) Relative development of the State to the development of the area in which there is concentration of the tribal population.

(c) What other factors would you suggest should be considered while declaring an area as Scheduled?

2. Naturally all these factors have to be taken into consideration in an over-all manner. But do you consider that all these factors must invariably be present before an area can be considered as a Scheduled Area or is it sufficient if only some of these are found to exist?

3. Do you consider any of the factors as indispensable to entitle an area to be considered a Scheduled Area? If so, indicate such factors in order of relative priority.

4. Do you agree with the suggestion to State Governments by the Central Advisory Board on Tribal Welfare that an administrative unit comprising a Tehsil or above which contains 50% tribal population might be declared as Scheduled Area?

5. What do you think should be the proportion of tribal population to the general population in a specified area for declaring that area as a Scheduled Area?

6. What in your opinion should be the area and population of a compact administrative unit in a Scheduled Area? Should it be equivalent to a revenue Tehsil or a sub-Tehsil or a Circle in your State?

As at present the President has declared certain areas in the States of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Maharashtra, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Orissa, and Punjab as Scheduled Areas. So far as Tribal Areas in Assam are concerned they are dealt with separately in the Sixth Schedule because of the special conditions obtaining there.

7. Do you consider that there are any areas in your State/Union Territory which because they may be inhabited predominantly by the tribals and which from the criteria that you would apply should be declared as Scheduled Area? If so, please specify such areas and the reasons for so classifying them.

8. Do you consider it necessary to revise the existing boundaries of any Scheduled Area in your State either due to population or other consideration? If so, specify reasons.

(ii) Criteria for de-scheduling areas declared as Scheduled Areas

The Sub-Committee of the Constituent Assembly which considered the constitutional aspect of the "Excluded and Partially Excluded" areas, had excluded some territories from the list of Scheduled Areas. But it did not lay down the principles on which it did so. It appears from its Report that in deciding exclusion or retention of an area it took into consideration whether the tribes concentrated in a Scheduled Area had reached a certain stage of advancement or had assimilated the modern way of life to a certain degree.

9. Do you agree with this test of advancement or assimilation as suggested above for the purpose of de-scheduling an area?

10. Do you suggest any other factor which should be applied in determining whether a particular area should be excluded from the list of the Scheduled Areas?

11. What in your opinion should be the approximate stage of advancement or assimilation with the rest of the people in the State which can be taken as a standard for determining whether an area should continue to be a Scheduled Area or not? This can be in terms of economic and educational advancement but there may be other aspects. If so, please specify them.

12. Do you consider that any area which now is a Scheduled Area or part thereof in your State should cease to be a Scheduled Area or cease to form part of the Scheduled Area? If so, please specify the same.

PART B

ADMINISTRATION AND CONTROL OF SCHEDULED AREAS

(i) Governor's Powers

Under Para 3 of the Fifth Schedule to the Constitution, the Governor of each State having Scheduled Areas therein is required to make a report to the President annually or whenever so required by the President regarding the administration of the Scheduled Areas in that State. The Governor is also required to make rules prescribing or regulating the number of members of the Tribes Advisory Council, the mode of their appointment and the appointment of Chairman of the Council and of the Officers and servants thereof, the conduct of its meetings and its procedure in general and all other incidental matters. The Governor has the authority to direct by public notification that any particular Act of Parliament or the Legislature of the State shall not apply to a Scheduled Area or any part thereof in the State or shall apply to the Scheduled Area or any part thereof in the State subject to such exceptions and modifications as he may specify in the notification and any direction given under this provision may be given so as to have retrospective effect. He has also powers to make regulations for the peace and good government of the Scheduled Areas and in particular in relation to the transfer of land by or amongst the members of the Scheduled Tribes in such areas; to the allotment of land to the members of Scheduled Tribes therein and to the protection of the tribals against exploitation by money lenders dealing with them. This power has to be exercised in consultation with the Tribes Advisory Council where it exists and the regulations made require the assent of the President.

1. State briefly the manner in which the Governor's powers have been exercised in your State in the interest of the promotion of the welfare of the tribal people and to protect them from social injustice and exploitation.

2. What have been the reactions of the tribal community to the exercise of the Governor's powers for their welfare? Please indicate also the attitude of the Tribes Advisory Council towards the exercise of such powers by the Governor.

3. Is the procedure for submitting periodical reports by Governor duly observed? Please indicate if any time-schedule has been drawn up for the submission of these Reports.

4. The Governor's special responsibility extends to the protection of the interests of tribal people in relation to ownership of land in forests for agricultural purposes. Is there any machinery in the State to consider the possible effect or impact of legislation, pending consideration before Parliament or the State Legislature so that when such legislation is enacted Government is ready with its considered views whether such legislation should or should not apply to the Scheduled Areas or any part thereof in the State or should apply to them subject to exceptions and modifications?

5. Had the Governor any occasion to exercise the powers given to him under Para 5(2) of Part B of the Fifth Schedule by making regulation under any of the following heads:

- (a) transfer of land by or among members of Scheduled Tribes;
- (b) allotment of land to members of Scheduled Tribes;
- (c) regulating the business of money-lending by persons who lend money to members of the Scheduled Tribes;
- (d) protection of forest rights; or
- (e) on any other social and economic matter?

(ii) States' Machinery; Tribal Welfare Departments

In almost all States the Director of Tribal Welfare is charged with the responsibility of looking after the welfare activities relating to tribal people. He is only a coordinating agency since several activities are executed by the departments directly concerned, e.g., education, community development, agriculture, forests, etc.

6. Do you consider that the existing organisation in your State is adequate? If so, what changes do you contemplate to bring about speedy implementation of the welfare schemes?

7. Do you consider it necessary to give increased status to the Directors of Tribal Welfare so that senior officers with adequate experience are posted for the purpose who in turn could ensure prompt and effective execution of welfare schemes?

8. Do you consider it necessary in view of the increased developmental work entrusted to Deputy Commissioner/Collectors to appoint Assistant Commissioners/Deputy Collectors exclusively for the work of tribal welfare in each District, coordinated by the Director of Tribal Welfare? If not, what other measures would you suggest for effective execution of the various welfare schemes?

9. Do you approve of the suggestion that the Director of Tribal Welfare should also be a Joint Secretary or a Deputy Development Commissioner? If so, what steps have been taken by the State Government to implement it or the proposals they have in view?

10. Describe briefly the action taken by Government on the recommendations of the Estimates Committee regarding better implementation of welfare schemes in the States? If no action has been taken what is contemplated?

11. Are you in favour of entrusting the work of tribal welfare to a separate coordinating Department under the Chief Secretary to the State Government?

12. For the speedy and efficient execution of the welfare schemes for Scheduled Tribes would you recommend setting up agencies, predominantly non-official in character and charged with executive functions? Please give reasons.

13. Has an assessment been made of the requirements of Tribal Welfare Officers to be in charge of the various schemes? Is any training programme contemplated or is under execution for training these officers?

14. Have the requirements of trained workers at field levels been assessed for the State as a whole? If so, please give details of such an assessment.

15. Have you a programme of imparting training to all the social workers employed in tribal areas? Please give details of such a training programme and the syllabus drawn for the purpose.

16. Has your State Government availed of the facilities offered by the Ministry of Home Affairs for training supervisory officers for work in tribal areas at the Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Bombay? If so, how many of your officers have been sent for training so far? Are you satisfied if they are usefully employed in your Tribal Welfare Department?

17. In dealing with tribal problems a balance has to be maintained between the twin considerations, namely, that the emotional integration of the tribal people with the people of India should be facilitated and that having regard to the peculiar disabilities of the Scheduled Tribes efforts should be made to protect them from social injustice and all forms of exploitation and promote their interests. Having regard to this objective, can you suggest any measures by which coordination between the administration in the Scheduled Areas and the administration in the neighbouring areas at administrative and developmental levels can be more effectively achieved?

(iii) Union Government's Control(a) Ministry of Home Affairs

In relation to the administration and control of Scheduled Areas the Central Government has certain responsibilities. At the Centre, the Government of India in the Ministry of Home Affairs formulate the policy and coordinate schemes for the welfare and advancement of the Scheduled Tribes. Article 338 of the Constitution provides for the appointment of a special officer called the Commissioner for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes whose duty it is to investigate all matters relating to the safeguards provided for the Scheduled Tribes under the Constitution and report to the President upon the working of those safeguards. These reports of the Commissioner are placed before the Parliament every year and are discussed. The main functions of the Commissioner include:

- (i) reporting to the President through the Minister for Home Affairs on the conditions of the Scheduled Tribes ;
- (ii) examining complaints regarding injustice done to and harassment of Scheduled Tribes; and
- (iii) examining applications for grants-in-aid received by the Ministry of Home Affairs from State Governments and non-official agencies with regard to schemes for the welfare of Scheduled Tribes.

In the discharge of his responsibilities he is assisted by Assistant Commissioners at headquarters and in the States.

The office of the Commissioner for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes is placed under the administrative control of the Ministry of Home Affairs.

In the Ministry of Home Affairs there is a Special Secretary in over-all charge of all the sections dealing with welfare of all backward classes including Scheduled Tribes. He is assisted by Deputy Secretary, an Officer on Special Duty and two Under Secretaries and there are five Sections in the Ministry dealing with all these subjects.

18. Have you anything to say with regard to the functioning of the offices of the Commissioner for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes and his Assistant Commissioners?

19. Have you any suggestions to offer as to how the functioning can be further improved?

20. Please state the extent to which the organisation under the Commissioner for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes has been useful to the States in the implementation of Welfare Schemes.

21. Have you any suggestions to offer as to how the Commissioner for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes and his Assistant Commissioners can be rendered more useful and helpful to the States and the Scheduled Tribes?

22. Do you consider that the existing set up in the Ministry of Home Affairs for the over-all supervision of welfare work among Scheduled Tribes in the States is adequate?

23. Do you consider it necessary to set up a machinery in the Ministry of Home Affairs for effectively following up the progress of schemes implemented for the welfare of Scheduled Tribes?

24. Do you consider it necessary to set up an evaluating agency in the Ministry for periodically assessing the progress of welfare schemes for Scheduled Tribes?

25. The Constitution provides that the executive powers of the Union shall extend to giving directions to the States as to the administration of the Scheduled Areas. Please give an idea about the use of such powers, the nature of the circumstances and occasions when such power was used and the result.

(b) Financial Control

Article 275 of the Constitution deals with the grants from the Union to the States. The provision to clause (I) of Article 275 says "there shall be paid out of the Consolidated Fund of India as grants-in-aid of the revenues of the State such capital and recurring sums as may be necessary to enable that State to meet the costs of such schemes of development as may be undertaken by the State with the approval of the Government of India for the purpose of promoting the welfare of the Scheduled Tribes in that State or raising the level of administration of the Scheduled Areas therein to that of the administration of the rest of the areas of that State". This is in the nature of a special provision for special grants.

26. Have you anything to say in regard to the implementation of the provisions of this Article?

27. As these grants are of a special nature for supplementing the welfare activity for Scheduled Tribes and improving the level of administration in Scheduled Areas, is the State Government taking adequate steps to ensure that these are in addition to normal development expenditure in the State?

28. Have you anything to say in regard to the utilisation by the States of the funds allocated by the Centre by way of grants to the States?

(iv) Tribes Advisory Councils.

Each State having Scheduled Areas therein and if the President so directs any State having Scheduled Tribes but not Scheduled Areas therein, shall have a Tribes Advisory Council. The duty of the Tribes Advisory Council is to advise on such matter pertaining to the welfare and advancement of Scheduled Tribes in the State as may be referred to them by the Governor. The Tribes Advisory Council shall consist of not more than 20 members, of whom as nearly as may be 3/4th shall be representatives of the Scheduled Tribes in the Legislative Assembly of the State.

29. Has any proper provision been made for the formation and functioning of the Tribes Advisory Council in your State? When was the Tribes Advisory Council set up in your State?

30. If there are no Scheduled Areas in your State, is there a Tribes Advisory Council? If not, do you think there is need for one such Council?

31. What is the constitution of the Tribes Advisory Council in your State and the mode of appointment of members? Please furnish a copy of the rules governing the constitution of the Councils.

32. What are the principles adopted in your State in nominating members other than representatives of the Scheduled Tribes from State Legislature?

33. Will the nomination of representatives of important social service organisations doing welfare work among the Scheduled Tribes in your State contribute effectively to the functioning of the Council?

34. Can you suggest any steps which would result in securing effective participation of the members of the Council in the work of the Tribes Advisory Council?

35. Please give the number of meetings of the Tribes Advisory Council since its inception to date, resolutions passed and the action taken or proposed to be taken by Government on each of the resolutions? If no action has been taken on certain resolutions please indicate the difficulties.

36. Are there any Rules of Business? What are the steps taken to ensure the punctual summoning of the meetings, proper conduct of business and for following up the decisions of the Council?

37. Is there any arrangement to help, or assist the members of the Council by providing them literature and other material?

38. Describe briefly the work done by the Council in relation to the welfare of the tribal people and the functions of the Tribes Advisory Council in relation to schemes of development.

39. Is the Tribes Advisory Council in your State kept in touch with the steps being taken for the welfare and advancement of Scheduled Tribes with a view to give a feeling of active participation in the task of the development of the areas and the tribal people?

40. Please state if on any occasion the Council was consulted before legislation affecting land tenure, allotment or distribution of land, debt redemption and check on money-lending or other tribal interests, was undertaken.

41. State briefly the steps taken by the State Government to keep the Tribes Advisory Council in touch whenever legislation relating to the rights of the tribal community in forest lands and forest produce or the management of the forests or disposal of the forest produce were considered at the executive or legislative levels.

42. It may be argued that under the existing provisions there is not much scope for members of the Tribes Advisory Council to take initiative in bringing forward issues pertaining to the welfare or advancement. If you hold this view can you indicate the scope of such initiative that could be taken by the members for contributing effectively towards the fulfilment of the spirit of the Constitution in the matter of participation in the proceedings of the Council?

43. To what extent has the functioning of the Tribes Advisory Council been successful in producing an impact upon the minds of the tribal community which it serves that its representatives are attending keenly to their welfare and advancement?

44. In the case of Union Territories would you advise the setting up of any Advisory Council for the welfare of the tribes on the lines of similar councils working in the States?

(v) Role of Statutory Panchayats and Traditional Tribal Institutions

It is the accepted policy of Government that in tribal areas every attempt should be made to revive and strengthen the existing Tribal Councils and that they should work through and not in rivalry to the traditional tribal institutions. Throughout tribal India practically every village has some kind of machinery for settling socio-religious disputes. In many areas this machinery has gone out of use but by and large this traditional institution continues to exercise enough influence on the people and their outlook. In the existing programme of democratic decentralisation it is inevitable that Statutory Panchayats will be taking over more and more the functions of the traditional Tribal Councils in some places. In the field of developmental activity, working through the Tribal Councils may be an advantage, in as much as the people would be more willing to co-operate with institutions which have established position among them.

45. What is the condition of the existing tribal institutions in your State?

46. What is their set-up and what are their functions—judicial, socio-religious, revenue and developmental?

47. What has been the reaction of the tribal people and their attitude towards the Statutory Panchayats?

48. Is it possible to coordinate the functioning of the Statutory Panchayats and Traditional Tribal Institutions? If so, what are your suggestions? State your reasons, if you consider that such coordination is not possible.

49. Is the principle of election to Tribal Councils contrary to tribal tradition? Do you think the elective principle enunciated by Statutory Panchayats will create any rivalry or jealousy in the tribal villages so as to disrupt the existing co-operative feeling amongst them?

50. What are the developmental activities that could be entrusted to the existing Tribal Councils in cases the Statutory Panchayats do not exist or they do not function properly?

PART C

APPROACH TO TRIBAL ECONOMY

Tribal communities subsist either on forest economy or on agricultural economy generally. A good part also subsists on animal husbandry and crafts. Vast changes have taken place and are still under way on the economic front in the country and naturally the effects thereof are far and wide. Neither the forest economy nor the agricultural economy of today, however remote the Scheduled Areas may be from the centre of civilisation geographically, can function in isolation. With the extension of administration over the forests, the tribal freedom to utilise the forest produce must necessarily be affected. With the incursion of contractors and traders, etc., into these areas with different kinds of habits of life, the expenditure pattern of the tribal people and their trade and commercial relations must change. The agricultural economy is also functioning under other pressures. These pressures are bound to tell upon the tribal people. Indebtedness is a result of backward economy as well as of improvidence. There can be no doubt that in a transitional period when the economy is functioning under multiple strains the better placed of the two would be in a better position to secure an advantage for himself over the other man, in this case, the tribal. It is necessary, therefore, to have a full picture of the existing economy, the forces that are in operation which affect it and the reactions of all these on the tribal population.

1. Has any economic survey been made of any Scheduled Area and the people therein in your State? If so, when was it conducted? Name the area and give an idea of the economic condition of the people, their occupational pattern, estimated earnings, pattern of their expenditure and consumption and their level of indebtedness.

2. What is the basis of tribal economy in your part of the country or State? Is it predominantly forest based, agricultural based or craft based or based upon animal husbandry?

3. Has any attempt been made to think about the progressive development of the Scheduled Areas and Scheduled Tribes as an integral part of the planned development of the State? If there is any such scheme please give details.

4. Please give your views about the proper approach to the question of economic development of the Scheduled Tribes both in the Scheduled Areas as well as elsewhere.

5. Do you consider the low absorbing capacity of the tribal economy as a relevant factor in the preparation of the planned programme for the development of the tribal economy?

6. Do you consider it advisable that from that point of view the entire strategy for the development of these areas should consist of (i) an immediate short-term programme, (ii) an intermediate programme and (iii) a long-term programme?

7. Can you give an idea about the implications of this approach of a short-term programme, intermediate programme and long-term programme?

8. Do you consider it advisable to treat the present basis of their economy whether it is forest based or agrarian as a starting point of the planned process of economic development?

9. Would you not consider it desirable that rather than hurriedly trying to transplant them in a new economic set-up it would be only natural to vitalise the existing economic set-up as a first step?

10. In that event would you not consider it of advantage, in relation to the tribals who are subsisting on forest economy, to ensure their development by assigning them a vital role to play in the development of that economy?

11. If that approach does not commend itself to you please state any alternative approach having regard to the short-term and immediate aspect of the programme. If that approach is acceptable to you please give some idea about the economic pattern based upon that approach.

12. Do you agree that in relation to agricultural economy it would be useful to concentrate upon the development of agriculture, animal husbandry and arts and crafts by making available to the tribal people the benefits of scientific and technical knowledge, credit and marketing?

13. Do the present forest laws and regulations hamper progress and development such as, for example, the necessity for obtaining permits to extract timber or bamboo for agriculture, improved housing or raw materials for the promotion of cottage industries and fuel for domestic consumption?

14. In that event to what extent will the present policy for the management and exploitation of forest wealth by Government require reorientation?

15. The basis of the present policy in relation to the management and exploitation of the forests is broadly speaking to earn revenue. In what way can the interest of the Government and the interest of the tribals in the management and exploitation of forest wealth be reconciled? If you have any suggestions to offer in that behalf please do so.

16. The Bombay experiment of forest co-operative societies is being recommended. Have you any idea about that experiment? If so, what is your view about it?

17. Can it be taken as a starting point of a new economic pattern and expanded so as to make the tribals in the forest area responsible for the proper management and utilisation of the forests in the interest of the country as well as themselves.

18. Do you think any of the rights of the tribal people in relation to forest or forest produce require to be restored, so that they may add substantially to their means of subsistence by utilising forest produce without any damage to the growth and maintenance of forests?

19. Do you consider that the following measures would be effective in rehabilitating the tribals residing in forests?

- (a) Replacement of contractors for exploitation of forests by co-operative societies of tribals on the Bombay pattern.
- (b) Processing on a co-operative basis of forest produce like timber into door-frames, furniture, etc., manufacture of soap from non-edible oil of mahua seed, collection of herbs and their processing.
- (c) Demarcation of village forests to be owned by tribal villages for their own use.
- (d) Collection of minor forest produce to be given solely to co-operatives of tribals.

20. Are there any other measures which you can suggest to improve the economy of the tribals based on forests?

21. As the land available for tribal people is quite insufficient to provide a standard of living which will bear comparison to that enjoyed by other groups of people, do you consider it necessary that more and more land should be made available to them on the one hand and efforts should be made to intensify cultivation on the other with a view to increasing the yield?

22. In view of the fact that among the majority of the tribal people the practice is to have only one food-grain crop and that too through a completely outmoded form of cultivation, do you agree that the remedy lies in introducing double and subsidiary cropping pattern?

23. Do you agree that on account of the unsatisfied land hunger among the tribal people it is necessary to give them the first preference in a scheme of redistribution of—

- (a) land available under Gramdan programme;
- (b) surplus lands available with the imposition of ceilings on holdings,
- (c) lands available in the reclaimed and deforested areas such as Dandakaranya?

24. As most of the tribal people have no record of rights over the land they hold or are cultivating, do you agree that as a first step a vigorous and sincere attempt should be made to establish the tribal people in their rights to the land which they have cultivated traditionally through records (pattas) issued in their favour?

25. What measures would you suggest for preventing the transfer of land from Scheduled Tribes to non-tribals?

26. Are you in favour of restoring land which has passed from tribals to non-tribals either by sale of a doubtful nature or in payment of old accumulated debts during the course of past 10 years? Would you suggest payment of compensation to the land-holders in such cases?

27. In forest areas jhuming or shifting cultivation is largely practised by tribals which results in denuding hillslopes and causing erosion.

- (a) Do you think that the scientific jhuming experiments conducted in NEFA and Orissa can be taken up by the tribals in your area without affecting tribal consciousness?
- (b) Can such cultivation be regulated in a way as to cause minimum danger to the soil and the programme of afforestation?
- (c) Would you suggest terracing of hillslopes and settled cultivation in place of shifting cultivation?

28. What is the scope for inducing the tribals to take to horticultural activity? What according to you will be the help and assistance that will be needed by the tribals to take to that activity?

29. Animal Husbandry both as a principal and as a subsidiary occupation has a great relevance in tribal economy. Please, therefore, suggest a programme for the purpose.

30. Do you agree that in view of the extreme backwardness of agriculture in tribal areas which is inter-dependent on animal husbandry a concerted should be made to improve the breed of cattle?

31. On account of the extreme scarcity of fodder in the lean months there have been untimely death of cattle on a large scale in tribal area. What steps would you advocate for remedying this situation?

32. It is well known that the cattle, pigs, goats and fowls reared in tribal areas are of a stunted growth. What steps would you advocate for upgrading the stock?

33. Experience has shown that the introduction of very superior varieties of cattle such as Hariana, Sahiwal, Ongole in a tribal area with a very poor breed has led to disastrous consequences. What steps would you advocate for a careful programme of regulated upgrading? Steps for a similar programme of upgrading poultry, sheep, pigs, etc., may also be indicated.

34. What according to you would be the scope of small industries—may be village and small scale industries—even medium-size industries based upon forest, agricultural, horticultural produce or mineral ore?

35. What according to you would be a suitable arrangement for training for supply of raw materials and equipment and for marketing of finished goods together with resources needed for it?

36. Do the local arts and crafts practised by the tribals contribute to their economy apart from their cultural or aesthetic value?

37. Has the co-operative credit movement in Scheduled Areas or areas inhabited mostly by tribals freed them from money-lenders? If it has not done so, state the reasons for the slow progress and also suggest ways and means to speed up the co-operative credit movement.

38. Ordinarily co-operatives do not lend money to their members for social obligations like marriages, deaths, etc., and members have to borrow money from money-lenders for meeting such obligations. Would you suggest in view of the backwardness of the tribals that the Co-operative law should be amended so as to permit co-operatives to lend money even for social requirements? In that case what should be the proportion of productive to unproductive debts to be advanced to the members of the society?

39. Do you consider that effective charge on crops of a borrower member, linking credit with marketing, fixing maximum credit of a member on his capacity to raise crops in his land and not on the acreage of his holding, service societies, and grain Golas will go a long way in stabilising and improving the tribal economy and eliminating the money lender-cum-trader or a trader or a landlord-cum-money lender? What other measures would you suggest for this purpose?

40. What facilities should in your opinion be made available in addition to the existing ones to develop various types of co-operatives amongst Scheduled Tribes?

41. In some of the Scheduled Areas communal ownership is still the rule. Would you advocate cultivation of land on co-operative lines in any such area? If you are in favour of it, will you suggest how to create faith in it and to make co-operative farming a success?

42. What is your estimate of the Andhra Scheduled Tribes Finance Corporation and Cooperative Purchase and Sale Unions in Panchmahals (Gujarat)?

PART D

PROGRAMMES FOR WELFARE AND DEVELOPMENT OF SCHEDULED TRIBES

(i) Introductory

It has been accepted in principle that the special provision for welfare schemes for Scheduled Tribes is intended to supplement and not to supplant measures of development pursued in each State in the interests of the population as a whole. It has been laid down in the Second Five Year Plan that in the administration of general development programmes care has to be taken to ensure that schemes are so formulated that the weaker sections of the population are aided in the largest measure. The special provisions for the welfare of Scheduled Tribes and for the development of Scheduled Areas should be so utilised as to enable them so derive the maximum advantage from general development programmes and to make up as speedily as possible for tardy progress in the past.

1. What special steps have been taken by the State Government to allocate specifically a portion of Plan outlay earmarked for the direct benefit of Scheduled Tribes and Scheduled Areas out of the total provision?

2. What measures have been taken to keep a watch on the programmes in the general sector which are to be complementary to the special programmes for Scheduled Tribes?

3. Programmes for welfare and development of Scheduled Tribes include several activities under the heads of economic uplift, development of communications, medical and public health and drinking water supply, education, housing, etc. It is well-known that no rigid formula on the priorities for the respective schemes is possible in view of the varying nature of the felt needs of the tribal communities from area to area. Keeping in view the broad requirements of Scheduled Tribes all over the country, would you suggest any priority? To what extent are the felt needs of the people in an area a correct guide to determine priorities?

4. Is any local survey made in order to ascertain the felt needs of the people in any area in your State inhabited by tribals?

5. If all areas are not covered by such a survey, please specify the areas covered and give us the result of the survey so conducted.

(ii) Agriculture and Allied Programme

6. Can you give an idea about the population subsisting upon agriculture and the area of land under cultivation in the regions in your state predominantly inhabited by tribals whether forming part of the Scheduled Areas or not?

7. There has been some complaint that the issue of land reforms has been so dealt with that it has produced more harm than good to the tribals. Is such a complaint heard on your side? If so, what is the size of the problem? Please explain in brief what in your opinion is wrong with the policy of land reforms. Is it its execution that is responsible for the defects? What are the remedies that you would suggest for the same?

8. Have land reforms in your State been completed and implemented and tribal cultivators brought in direct relation with the State? Have you any planned programme whereby these tribal cultivators can take full advantage of the newly acquired rights on land?

9. What is the land tenure under which tribals are cultivating the land?

10. Have intermediaries on land been abolished?

11. Has it resulted in conferring the rights of occupancy or Bhoodidhari on the tribals?

12. Has any survey been made of the cultivable and allottable surpluses either with the Government or otherwise on the application of ceilings?

13. What would be the policy of the State in the matter of allotment of such lands vis-a-vis the shifting cultivators and landless labourers?

14. Are new settlers being provided with necessary technical and financial assistance? What is the machinery devised especially for their guidance and supervision to ensure that assistance reaches the people intended to benefit therefrom? Is it the intention of the Government while settling tribals on land to form co-operative societies?

15. What steps have the State Government taken to settle landless tribals on the cultivable waste land or Bhoodan land or to provide them with other means of livelihood? Are these steps considered adequate and effective? Illustrate your answer with reference to the number of families and tribals settled on cultivable land or on Bhoodan land and also the various measures taken to enable them to earn their livelihood. Please supply the figures of land given.

16. Has there been any large scale transfer of land held by tribals to non-tribals living in the Scheduled Areas or outside in your State? If the answer is in the affirmative, indicate the size of the problem.

17. Is the Hali* system prevailing in your State? What steps have been taken to eradicate this system which is a relic of feudalism? Please state whether steps have been effective and if not, what steps would you suggest in this connection?

*The terms Veth, Vetti, Betti are also applicable to this system according to which from generation to generation, a family in debt is compelled to offer labour to the landlord.

18. What are the measures taken by the Government for soil conservation well-irrigation, minor and medium irrigation, bunding and scientific improvement of agriculture?

19. Do you consider that the legislation passed so far by the State Legislature is adequate for safeguarding the interests of the tribals on land? If not, what modifications would you suggest or what further legislation should be undertaken for the purpose?

20. Can you give an idea about the machinery in your State to attend to the needs of and for providing technical services to the tribal agriculturists especially in the interior and remote areas?

21. What are the steps proposed to be taken for inducing tribals to settle cultivation by terracing hill slopes?

22. What is the scope for promotion of animal husbandry amongst tribal agriculturists in your areas?

23. Is there any scheme to help the development of the cattle wealth?

24. In view of the great importance of sheep breeding which is a main source of livelihood for tribal people living in high altitudes what specific steps have been taken for improving the existing breed and giving facilities for better rearing?

25. What is the expenditure year by year spent on the development of agriculture or promotion of other activities mentioned above in your State/area?

26. Has the State Government regulated money-lending to the Scheduled Tribes? If so, what are the provisions of these regulations and what has been the effect on the tribal economy?

27. Are the tribals in your State suffering from indebtedness? If so, what are the causes of this indebtedness? Is it due to improvidence or backward tribal economy? Would you advocate total moratorium of old accumulated debts and conciliation of new debts? If you favour moratorium and conciliation of old and new debts, what should be the procedure to be adopted?

(iii) Forestry

28. What are the various legislative measures introduced for protecting rights of the tribals in land and in regard to the use of the forests? Please supply copies of the Acts passed by the State Legislature and other administrative instructions of the State Government.

29. What has been the impact of the present forest policies and laws regarding afforestation and soil conservation upon the psychology and the economy of tribals inhabiting forests?

30. The whole approach to the present day forest administration is to show increasing revenues. From the purely revenue point of view nothing can be said against this approach. But it loses sight of the fact that the tribals have also rights in the forests and in any case they have to subsist on the forest. Do you think that the approach to exploitation of forest wealth requires to be reconsidered or at least modified and a policy accepted which would reconcile both the interests?

31. Following steps are suggested for the above purpose:—

- (i) Forest Labourers' Co-operative Societies on the Bombay pattern.
- (ii) Preference to tribals in employment on forest work so long as they are available.
- (iii) Participation in exploitation of forest produce on the principle of guided management.
- (iv) Village forests earmarked for domestic use should be placed under tribal village council.
- (v) Village forests' revenues to go to the tribal village councils.
- (vi) A vigorous afforestation policy especially during lean months so as to provide employment.
- (vii) Co-operatives of the tribals to be set up to exploit minor forest produce.
- (viii) Credit, transport and marketing facilities on an adequate scale, especially in the interior and remote areas.

Do you suggest anything else as a part of a progressive forest policy to reconcile the interest both of revenue as well as of the tribals?

32. It is suggested that great inroads have been made into the rights of the tribals both in land and forests and that the special machinery provided in the Constitution to protect them has proved absolutely inadequate. Is this complaint justified? If so, what steps should you suggest for protecting the rights of the tribals?

(iv) Village Industries, Crafts and Arts

33. What is the scope for the development of village industries, etc. among the tribal population? Has any progress been achieved during the course of last 10 years? Can you give some idea about such progress?

34. Although it is well known that the tribal people are essentially artistic and of a creative temperament there has been a gradual decline in their arts and crafts and they are not able to get any income therefrom. What are the special arts and crafts prevalent in your area/State and which of them are flourishing?

35. Have any steps been taken to explore the possibilities of reviving these arts and crafts? If so, please name them.

36. Are there any production-cum-training centres for the benefit of the tribal people? What is the nature of the training offered in these centres and what are the facilities for rehabilitating the trainees in the crafts?

37. Have the credit and marketing needs of the tribals been explored? Specify the steps taken in this regard.

38. Have any centres been set up for studying and improving tribal designs in arts and crafts?

39. Has any survey been made of the local arts and crafts with a view to determining the consumption pattern locally and also for export to other areas?

40. Can we get the figures of the amount of expenditure incurred in developing these industries, arts and crafts among the tribals in your State along with the figures indicating an increase in their earnings and expansion of employment opportunities? Has the work of the Khadi Commission or the State Khadi Boards been extended to the areas which are removed from central places in the districts or tehsils?

41. Can you suggest a plan or a programme, in your area or the State, which would ultimately bring about self-sufficient village economy based on agriculture, forestry, village industries, arts and crafts and even small scale industries?

(v) Communications

Doubts have been expressed in some quarters that every road which facilitates the expansion of educational and health services to tribal areas can also bring undesirable elements more easily into those areas. In view of this, the suggestion has been made that opening of communications in tribal areas should keep pace with the expansion of welfare services and protective administrative agencies.

42. Do you agree with the above view? Can you suggest any other safeguards so that the expansion of communications does not defeat the object behind it?

43. It is essential that tribal areas are opened out so that greater contact is established between the tribal and non-tribal population, but one has to proceed cautiously to ensure that this process does not work to the detriment of the tribal people. Consistent with the above can you suggest a road programme in the tribal areas with special reference to the need for motorable, jeepable and feeder roads?

44. To what extent will it be possible to attract the tribal labour to undertake contracts through Labour Co-operatives for construction of road communications?

45. Have you any suggestion to offer with regard to the expansion of telephonic and telegraphic and even postal communications in the tribal areas?

46. What percentage of the Plan provision for the development of communications in the State has been allocated for the Scheduled Areas? On what basis has it been done?

47. What is the allocation for communications in the Scheduled Areas in addition to the above under the grant under Article 275 of the Constitution?

48. Have there been any large-scale works under execution in the Scheduled Areas such as major bridges, causeways, roads out of the general provision for communications in the State? If so, what is the outlay involved?

49. Do you think it necessary to make regular provision in all successive plans for the maintenance of roads, bridges, etc., already constructed in Scheduled Areas?

50. Do you consider it necessary to pool the resources of the C.P.W.D., the State P.W.D., the Local Boards and the Forest Department for planning, construction and maintenance of roads in Scheduled Areas?

(vi) Education

51. What is the order of priority you would give to Education in an overall programme of social services among the tribal people?

52. Please give a detailed report of the progress made among the tribal people in the field of:—

- (i) Primary education among all children.
- (ii) Primary education among Girls.
- (iii) Secondary education.
- (iv) Higher education.
- (v) Diploma course in the field of Technical courses.

53. Can you give the progress of expenditure? Please give a detailed report of the year-wise expenditure under various heads of Education from 1951-52 to 1959-60.

54. Are the schools for Scheduled Tribes in your State maintained by the State Education Department or the Tribal Welfare Department?

55. Do you not consider it necessary that all educational institutions for Scheduled Tribes, whether in Scheduled Areas or outside, should be maintained by the State Education Department and not the Tribal Welfare Department?

56. Please give the number of schools and the expenditure incurred by the respective Departments on the maintenance of schools for Scheduled Tribes in Scheduled Areas as well as outside.

57. Do you think that the measures taken by the State Government or Central Government are adequate for the rapid spread of education among the Scheduled Tribes? Do you suggest other measures in addition to the existing ones? If so, what?

58. Which social service institutions are working for the spread of education among the Scheduled Tribes in your State and what is their approach to the education of tribals from the point of view of the healthy evolution of the children into useful citizens of the country?

(a) System of education

59. Have you any suggestion to make about the appropriate system of education for the Scheduled Tribes? At the present moment three different systems are prevalent—(1) System of education as it prevails in other parts of India, (2) Basic education courses, and (3) Ashram Schools. Have you any preference? If so, please state the preference together with the reasons.

60. In relation to the tribal people we have to be doubly sure that there is no resistance to the system we introduce. In the circumstances, which system would you suggest? Of course, any system will have to be adapted to the local needs.

61. There are several existing tribal institutions which have been serving traditionally as centres for education, community discipline and leadership such as the youth dormitories called the Gothuls, Morongs, etc. In your view how could such institutions be utilised in the educational programme?

62. Do you think the current system of education with its white collar complex is suitable to the needs of the tribal people? Can that system be adapted to the needs of the tribal people? Have you any suggestion to make on the point?

63. It is felt by some that scientifically looked at in the context of India or the world, there can be no two opinions that education should follow the aptitudes of children and that apart from those who may have an academic bent, the rest of the children should have craft-based education. Do you agree?

64. It has been suggested that all Primary Schools in tribal areas should be agriculture and forest-based and at least two days in a week should be set apart for practical training in these subjects. Do you agree?

65. Can you suggest how the parents and the children can be persuaded to accept such a curriculum?

66. It has been stated that it is not conducive to the health and the mental and all-round growth of tribal children to have long school hours. The vacations observed in primary schools are at present not suitable to local requirements. A suggestion has been made that the period should be spaced out so that part of the boys' time is spent in the school and part at home where they can help their families. The holidays should be given at the time of harvest, sowing and weeding. Do you agree with these views?

(b) Education in mother-tongue

It has been stated that one of the main reasons why schools do not fulfil their real function in tribal society is the inadequate attention paid to the local languages. It has been repeatedly emphasised that the instructions in the primary schools should be imparted to the tribals in their mother-tongue as far as possible. This is in conformity with All-India policy.

67. Can you suggest any solution in cases where there are many dialects in an area as to which should be the language in which instruction should be given at the primary stage?

68. Do the tribals in your State have a script of their own? If they have a script, have text-books been prepared in that? In the absence of a local script, which script would you advocate for adoption for the preparation of text-books? Is it the regional, the Devnagari or the Roman script? You may specify the reasons for your views.

69. It has been found that the words used, the stories told, the ideas presented in text-books and the general method of teaching tribal children are all unfamiliar to them. The class-rooms are dull without pictures or decorations and the traditional games and dances of the tribals are seldom taught. There are no crafts, no teaching of art and no gardening. What steps have been taken to adopt all the above to the tribal back-ground?

(c) Tribal teachers

70. It has been stated that the spread of education among the tribals would be hastened if tribal teachers were employed in primary and secondary stages. Do you agree?

71. What is the progress made in regard to the training of tribal teachers for work in their own areas?

72. What are the steps taken by the State Government to train teachers in the basic system of education specially suited to the conditions of the various Scheduled Tribes in your State?

73. While a long-term regular course for teachers' training is necessary, would you recommend also a short-term training course for primary teachers and middle school teachers working in Scheduled Areas and in areas predominantly inhabited by tribes? Would it be possible to give them a tribal bias and to equip them with a correct approach to the education of Tribal children as a part of that short-term course?

74. What steps are being taken to ensure that school teachers learn local languages?

(d) Compulsory primary education

75. Has compulsory primary education in the age group 6—11 been introduced in your State including Scheduled Areas? Or is it proposed to introduce such education in the near future?

76. Is universal compulsory primary education as envisaged by the Union Government practicable before 1965 in the Scheduled Areas or in areas predominantly inhabited by Scheduled Tribes?

77. If such education is introduced what steps are being taken or are proposed, to enforce it in Scheduled Areas or villages predominantly inhabited by the Scheduled Tribes? How have the tribals reacted to the introduction of compulsory primary education and to its enforcement?

78. What are the conditions necessary for ensuring success of the experiment of compulsory primary education? Should not some ground-work precede such a step? Has that been done in your State? Would it not be necessary to provide mid-day meals to the children of the tribal people? Would it not be an imperative need apart from being an inducement?

79. What approach would you recommend in case of reluctant parents or children regarding attendance at school by the latter? Would a punitive approach be successful in tribal areas?

80. What is the percentage of wastage and stagnation in the education of tribals at the primary stage in your State? What remedies would you suggest to get over this stagnation?

(e) Different types of schools

81. Please give the number of (i) Primary (ii) Basic and (iii) Ashram Schools in your area.

82. Can you review and give an assessment of the progress of Ashram School education for tribal children in your area?

83. Have the basic schools been given an agricultural bias or a craft bias? have any difficulties been experienced in obtaining instructors in the crafts or in training local tribals in these schools?

84. In those areas where basic schools have been established, has any attempt been made to adapt the curriculum to the requirement of the tribal people? If so, what is the accepted curriculum? Please supply copies of the curriculum.

85. It has been found that a properly maintained basic school teaching through a well-organised agricultural farm and a craft centre attached could always be self-supporting. Are there any such self-supporting basic schools in your State?

86. Do you consider that Ashram Schools should be extended to other areas inhabited predominantly by the tribals? If so, what should be the coverage of population and area for each Ashram School?

(f) Girls' education

87. Is it considered that some special facilities should be given to girls for inducing them to attend schools? If so, please give an idea. Also give an idea of the facilities which the State Government have offered or have in mind.

(g) Scholarships and special incentives

88. What special facilities are given in your State to students of Scheduled Tribes in High Schools and Colleges including professional and technical institutions? Are these facilities adequate? And if not what other facilities would you suggest?

89. How many scholarships and freeships are reserved for students of Scheduled Tribes in your State? Please mention (i) the amount of scholarships and (ii) the number of scholarship holders and freeship holders.

90. What are the conditions for the grant of scholarships and freeships? Do you consider that any of the conditions of scholarships are restrictive in their scope? And if so, do you suggest that they should be liberalised? If so, in what direction?

91. Describe briefly the concessions granted to students of Scheduled Tribes in your State in regard to the following:—

- (a) examination fees;
- (b) tuition fees;
- (c) boarding & lodging;
- (d) free supply of books & stationery; and
- (e) any other concessions.

92. Are there separate hostels for Scheduled Tribe students in your State? Or are they admitted to the general hostels?

93. If separate hostels are provided give the number of such hostels and the number of students belonging to Scheduled Tribes.

94. How many hostels in your State are managed by Government and by non-official agencies and the number of students in each of the hostels.

95. Are you of opinion that hostels managed by non-official agencies are managed more economically and efficiently?

96. Please state the extent of grant-in-aid sanctioned to hostels managed by non-official organisations. Is the grant adequate for giving a balanced diet to the inmates? If not, what should be the per capita rate of the grant-in-aid?

97. It is suggested by some that in those places where all the tribal children in the area mess together, the Government and the Social agencies should take advantage of these community messes rather than going in for separate hostels. What is your opinion? Has this been tried in your State or area? If so, specify the area and state the advantage.

(vi) Medical and Public Health

98. What is the general state of health of the tribals in your area? To what extent do they suffer from major diseases such as malaria, yaws, leprosy, Venereal Disease etc.?

99. What are the medical facilities available in the State to counteract these diseases?

100. What are the medical facilities normally available to the tribal people in your area? Do you consider that the medical coverage is satisfactory taking into consideration the long distances they have to travel for availing themselves of medical facilities?

101. Is there any attempt made to enlist the assistance of tribal doctors (or medicine men)?

102. Give details about the Government programme for tackling major diseases in your area? To what extent has that programme progressed? What are the difficulties in the way and how does Government propose to tackle them?

103. What is the Plan provision for medical and public health under the normal State Plan and the special provision for the same under the Ministry of Home Affairs for the benefit of Scheduled Tribes?

104. Is co-operation of international agencies such as W.H.O., U.N.I.C.E.F., etc. available? To what extent are their services utilised?

105. What is the state of maternity services in the tribal areas? What are the difficulties in the way?

106. What is the programme to provide clean drinking water to the tribal people? To what extent is non-availability of clean drinking water among tribal people responsible for diseases? Can you give an idea about average distance that the tribals will have to cover before they get drinking water once the programme is completed?

107. What is the Plan provision for drinking water supply under the normal State Plan and the special provision for the same under the Ministry of Home Affairs for the benefit of Scheduled Tribes?

108. To what extent is under-nutrition or malnutrition responsible for diseases among tribal people? Is there any programme to meet this problem of under-nutrition or malnutrition?

109. Is there any programme for outdoor centres, indoor hospitals and sanatoria? Is there any arrangement for follow-up services?

110. Is there any programme to train local people in nursing? Please give particulars.

111. To what extent have mobile health services expanded in tribal areas of your State?

(viii) Housing

112. What is the priority that has been assigned to housing for Scheduled Tribes in your State?

113. Is there any programme for settling nomadic tribals? Is there any programme for providing house-sites to them so that these nomadic tribals can settle down at one place? Has the Government undertaken any housing scheme for them? If so, to what extent has it become popular?

114. There are complaints that because these houses are built far away from the centres of administration in the State they are generally carelessly built. Is there any arrangement for supervision and control during construction? Is any effort made to relate housing designs to tribal surroundings, their tastes and their artistic sense? Is there any endeavour made to associate the tribals at the time of designing and also in the construction work?

115. Are there any housing colonies for tribal people in your State? If so, describe the facilities available in them. Are there any colonies which have not been occupied or which have been deserted? If so, state the reasons for the same.

116. In all housing colonies where tribal families are rehabilitated it is necessary that Government should ensure that adequate provision is also made for providing drinking water supply, a Primary Health Centre, a school and a co-operative society. It has been found that in several colonies mere houses are constructed without these facilities. Have Government taken all possible steps to ensure that these facilities are given in your State in all such colonies?

117. Is the scheme of housing tribal people integrated with any existing scheme of economic uplift either in agriculture or in cottage industries? Describe such integrated schemes giving their location.

118. Complaints have been made that in the scheme of resettlement of tribal people in deforested lands, there has been large-scale dislocation on account of the families being removed far from their original place of habitation. Such a process will disturb their domestic and social life and means of livelihood. Have there been any such instances in your State and if so, have adequate steps been taken to prevent such happenings?

119. In the process of house construction do you give the tribal people lumpsum grants or money in instalments or building materials in stages?

120. What is the total Plan provision for housing and what is the total number of houses built out of this provision?

121. Are there any housing co-operatives in your State for tribal people? If so, give their location and assess the extent of their success.

(ix) Multi-purpose Tribal Blocks

122. What has been the reaction of the tribals to the special scheme of multi-purpose development blocks? Has it been favourable and has it generated confidence and a good-will among the tribals and enlisted their co-operation?

123. Would you advocate extension of the scheme to all pockets of areas which are undeveloped and almost inaccessible and whose tribal population is more under-developed economically and socially and where shifting cultivation is still practised or where primitive type of cultivation exists?

124. Should the Tribal Welfare Department in your State be closely associated with the Development Department in regard to the administration of the multi-purpose development blocks and their working in order to obtain better co-ordination with welfare activities carried on for the Tribal/Social Welfare Department?

125. What are your suggestions to ensure that the benefit of welfare schemes reaches the less accessible and the most needy to the maximum degree possible?

126. What should be the coverage of a multi-purpose block? Originally it was fixed at a population of approximately 25,000 persons spread over an area of 200 sq. miles. Can we say that in no case should the area be larger than 200 sq. miles?

127. What are your suggestions in the case of multi-purpose blocks where there have been deviations in the coverage?

128. What do you think can be done to give an orientation in tribal way of life to the officers and men working in the tribal area?

129. Has the State Government availed itself of the power given to it by the Central Government to transfer funds from one head to another within the same block in any manner they considered necessary in accordance with the local requirements?

130. Have you any ideas about the initiation of work in the special multi-purpose blocks? Should there be a preparatory period that can be utilised for selection and posting of staff and construction of buildings?

131. How many tribal candidates have been selected to work in the special multi-purpose blocks in your area? What are the difficulties in obtaining the services of tribal employees?

132. Is there any effort being made by the non-tribal members of the staff to study the local language? What do you consider will be the effect on tribal members of the staff of giving extra allowances to the staff imported from outside? What steps would you suggest to prevent any unfavourable reaction upon the tribal members of the staff?

133. There is a complaint that social service schemes get the better of the economic schemes in the implementation programme. What is the position in your State or area? What is your opinion about it?

134. What do you suggest as a matter of fundamental consideration in determining the priorities in special multi-purpose blocks so as to generate an attitude that it is for the local population to take an initiative in the matter of local development?

(x) Research and Evaluation

It is agreed on all hands that proper research into the tribal way of life will provide a sound basis for welfare programmes in the tribal areas. A scientific study and a sympathetic understanding of tribal life will help the Development Officials and Social workers in understanding properly the people they serve. Such a study will no doubt enable them to appreciate their culture.

135. Are there any Tribal Research Institutes in your State either under official or non-official auspices? If so, briefly review the working of these Institutes and their contribution towards applied research.

136. Have these Institutes conducted any socio-economic surveys of the tribal areas? If so, which are the areas and the tribes covered?

137. Have these Institutes been entrusted with any evaluation of schemes in operation?

138. Has the State Government formulated any welfare programmes on the basis of the recommendations of these Institutes?

139. Are there any centres for training welfare workers attached to these Research Institutes?

140. Have the Research Institutes brought out any publications or monographs on the life and customs of the various tribes?

(xi) Non-Official Agencies

While the role of voluntary agencies has been recognised as an indispensable part of the institutional set-up charged with the responsibility of carrying through the development work, one should be very clear about these voluntary agencies so that there will be no occasion for future complaints, or any complication.

141. The Commission would like to know which are the voluntary agencies working for the welfare of Scheduled Tribes in your State.

142. How long have these organisations been functioning and what are the spheres of their activities?

143. Are there any tribal voluntary organisations amongst them? If so, give an idea of the working of such organisations.

144. If they are aided organisations, please give the amount of aid given to them, the purposes for which it was given generally, the contribution they have been able to secure from the tribals, and the contribution that they are able to secure from other sources.

145. The present aim is to secure integrated development. Whether it is the State or voluntary agency, ultimately there should be complete co-ordination.

Can you suggest, bearing in mind the above consideration, the demarcation of the areas of responsibility and the extent of powers of the co-ordinating authority?

146. Since the voluntary agencies are expected to play a substantial role in the implementation of the welfare programmes, they will need continuous strengthening. Can you suggest a scheme which would go to strengthen these voluntary organisations by enabling them to recruit proper type of workers, train them and ensure a properly organised non-official service to the tribal people?

147. What is your view about co-ordinating councils? Who should take the initiative in forming them? What should be their relationship with the official agencies? Do you propose any representation to non-officials in the official set-up? If so, at what level?

148. What are your suggestions about equipping the tribal workers so as to enable them to undertake the responsibility for welfare programmes? What is the policy that you would suggest in the matter of recruitment of tribal workers and their training for such work? It is suggested that there should be no insistence upon educational qualifications if the proper type of workers are available with the necessary initiative and zeal amongst the tribal people. Do you agree? Have you any qualifications in mind?

149. What procedure would you suggest for the proper maintenance, rendering and auditing of accounts by the voluntary organisations?

APPENDIX VI

(See para 10·24 of Chap. 10 and para 11·55 of Chapter 11)

A broad outline of the Scheme and the institutional set up to carry out multiple sources of employment programme

For the last two years emphasis is being placed upon economic development getting a priority along with Education, Health and Communications and other items of development activity. We have in the main body of the Report described various categories of tribals. There are tribals who are in the primitive stage of economy. They live by hunting and depend upon forest produce that nature gives. What has been done so far about them is exceedingly little. The Government has not been able to give them land for settled habitation yet. Some colonies have been created but with little thought about permanent rehabilitation. Then there is another class which lives on shifting cultivation and in the forest villages. The total population of these tribals approximates 3 million. Next comes the tribals who have taken to cultivation but that cultivation is in a primitive stage. Finally is a class which has more or less assimilated with the rural population. Except for this class all the three other classes are leading a stagnant existence so far as their economy is concerned. It would be idle to suggest that land can itself provide an answer. In the first place good land is not available in that quantity or if available may not be in the hands of the tribals; and in the second place the tribal population is increasing rapidly.

The Commission would therefore suggest that instead of banking upon land only, we should approach the problem of economic development by tapping all the sources of employment and income. This means harnessing all the resources that are available to the tribals. In other words, it will be necessary to mobilise Agriculture, Forestry, Animal Husbandry, Village and Small Scale Industries and Minerals in an effort to tackle the problem of economic development. A coordinated or an integrated approach of this nature alone will be able to raise not only the economic earnings but the morale of the tribal population.

I. Agriculture

(i) We have suggested in the body of Report that the target should be employment for 300 days in a year. In the case of tribals with land or tribals depending upon land, the main source will be agriculture. Agriculture is looked upon from a limited angle. In our opinion it should start with contour bunding which is so very necessary for the conservation of soil as also protection of reservoirs from being silted. Contour bunding has a potential for employment to a very large number of people in the very period in which they want the work most. Apart from that it will have the effect of preserving humidity in the soil and raising the water level thus relieving drinking water distress in their areas.

(ii) Next to soil conservation or contour bunding is irrigation. A programme of minor and medium irrigation properly worked out along with a programme for soil conservation will absorb all the labour this area can produce.

(iii) Third item is horticulture. There is great scope for horticulture in these areas.

(iv) Next item is afforestation. Certain types of timber and bamboo which can grow immediately on the village and protected forest lands can not only provide fuel, but marketable produces. This will also be an accretion in the forest wealth.

(v) Finally there is vast scope for processing of agricultural raw materials.

II. Forests

Next major item is Forest. While the forest policy includes as one of its aims the needs of the local population, this is being looked upon by the Forest Department and the tribals from the limited angle of providing their fuel needs. This has resulted in disastrous consequences both to the forest and the relations between the Government and the tribals. The Forest Department have all the time been watching how to limit these needs and the tribals have been looking forward to extending them. A sort of class struggle is under way and the very potential which could be utilised in the service of the forest is being utilised in frittering of the forest and the potential that can be utilised in the service of the tribals is being exploited by others. The Government must in the first instance accept an obligation that they are concerned as much with the development of the forest as with the development of the people in the forest. There should be a partnership approach rather than exclusive approach. If this approach is accepted, the Forest Department can, with the means at its disposal, provide employment and opportunities for earnings to tribals in more than one way. We are giving hereunder the avenues which will be available to the tribals thereby:—

(1) Work on protection, conservation, development and exploitation of forest—

(a) There is enough scope for recruiting tribals as Forest Guards.

(b) Tribals can also be organised for protection services.

(c) Tribals can be recruited for conservation work after giving them a little training.

(d) They can participate in regeneration and development activity. Finally they can participate in the exploitation of forests.

The procedure adopted now is to have forest programmes without reference to the needs of the tribals. An integrated approach would cast a responsibility upon the Forest Department to find out also work for the tribals in the off season. It should be their responsibility to provide work to the tribals for a certain number of days in a year. This can be settled for every region having regard to the needs of the labour for agricultural and other developmental operations. The question of wages has to be considered in relation to the conditions obtaining in the area. Our emphasis in the first 10 years should be upon providing work at such wages which the Forest Department can give for mass operations.

The Report of the Special Agency Development Officer, old Madras State, called the Malayappan Committee Report has given a calender of work from month to month which is reproduced as under:

Month	Particulars of work
April	.. Nursery work, alignment and stacking, in teak plantations.
May	.. Stump planting.
June	.. Do.
July	.. Weeding, casualties replacement in the plantations.
August	.. Do.
September	.. Do.
October	.. Do.
Novemer	.. Repairs to roads and buildings.
December	.. Repairs to roads and building, clearfelling of the miscellaneous species in the area to be planted. Fire protection of forests to commence.
January	.. Fire protection, line clearance, seed collection.
February	.. Burning in the teak plantations and fire lines, demarcation of coupes for next year.
March	.. Completion of all sanctioned work, building repairs, etc.

While this calender applies to the places where there are plantations, there is so much scope for work in the forest areas that every range can prepare a calender of work in the area itself. The calender should take into consideration the need of the agriculturists and the labour to attend to cultivation. The maximum amount of work in the forests should be reserved for post-cultivation operations and post-harvesting operations.

As far as possible such work should be given by setting up forest labourer's cooperative societies.

(2) Making available to the tribals plots of land for growing fruit trees or timber—

The land would continue to belong to the Forest Department. The trees will be the property of the tribals. But they will be cut only under Forest conditions. The tribals will be free to utilise the forest produce and dead wood for their own purposes.

(3) Collection of Forest Produce—

The tribals have been working today as agents of the middle men who purchase it from them. We would suggest that they should be enabled to collect the minor forest produce with a view to earn an income. This will be done in one of the two ways. Either they sell it to a co-operative society or the Government makes arrangements for purchasing it and selling it at best available prices. We are confident that there is enough in our forests to provide lucrative sources of income to the forest adivasis in the forest.

(4) Processings of forest produce—

Very little attention has been paid to this aspect and the raw produce or unfinished timber goes down in its raw and unfinished form when it could be processed in the forest areas or nearabout. This would cover both the major forest produce as well as the minor forest produce. The forest produce is available in plenty and processing of it cannot only be a source of employment, but add to the skill of the tribals thus expediting the process of assimilation.

Thus conservation, development and exploitation of forest wealth as well as the processing of forest produce should be studied not only from the angle of income to the Forest Department, but also from the angle of providing gainful employment to the people and it should be the responsibility of the Forest Department to initiate this process and provide the necessary institutional set-up as Andhra Pradesh has done for this work.

III. Animal Husbandry

The forests have been treated as exclusively reserved so much so that animal husbandry which can develop side by side with the forest is not being permitted. In a coordinated approach, animal husbandry should also be linked up with the forests especially in relation to the development of the fodder resources of the forest and dairy development with due safeguards for protection of forests. There is wide scope for dairying, piggery, poultry and other similar supplementary occupations.

IV. Minerals

There is great scope for exploitation of mineral wealth in the forest areas. Because this activity is taken up merely from a commercial angle, nobody has given a thought to the utilisation of tribal potential for this purpose. Minerals in India are found mostly in tribal areas. The mining industry results in displacement of tribals. That the Department concerned with this activity gives no thought to rehabilitating tribals and utilising the manpower resources available locally is a tragedy of the situation. It should be placed under an obligation to study this aspect simultaneously with the aspect of exploitation and processing of the mineral wealth.

Agency recommended for implementation of the multiple sources of employment programme

It will be necessary to have a central institution at the State level. This should have representatives of all the Departments concerned with the economic development of the tribals on it. Departments of Agriculture, Animal Husbandry and Village and Small Scale Industries should invariably be represented on it. It should have also an element of non-officials on it. It will be in the initial stages a sponsoring body as well as an executive body. It will set up in tribal areas, regions or districts as it may be necessary, number of co-operatives to work as apex societies. It will also through the Tribal Development Blocks or Tribal Welfare Department when such Blocks do not exist, encourage mobilisation of manpower and material resources through primary co-operatives. This will be the field organisation. In between the central institution and the field agency, there may be intermediary body or bodies according to the needs of the situation. The responsibility must be squarely placed upon this central institution to implement this programme. The problems of coordination with the co-operative institutions and statutory and non-statutory local bodies will have to be studied in detail. The aim should be to see that tribals in the area got opportunities for employment practically all the year round. As suggested above, a calender of work can be drawn up for each area dovetailing the work programme on agriculture, forestry, animal husbandry, processing industry, etc. in such a way that the labour is kept busy throughout the year.

The central organisation will initially and finally be a policy organisation. Till the framework of co-operative is fully built up and functions effectively it will have to look to the commercial and business side also. It will thus make good the gap at present. This side cannot be attended to by the Central or State Governments departmentally. The field of financing individuals will be dealt with through the co-operatives as far as possible. The membership of the primary co-operatives will be open to non-tribals in the area who are in need of work.

(See para 11.28 of Chapter 11)

A summary of law passed by various States to protect the rights of tribals on land

State/Union Territory	Legislative Measures taken to prevent land alienation
Andhra Pradesh ..	Under Regulation I of 1959 alienation of land by tribals to non-tribals is prohibited except with the permission of the competent officer. Government have powers to set aside transfers made in contravention of this Regulation and to restore possession of the land to the original tribal owner/tenant. This Regulation is in force only in East and West Godavari, Vishakhapatnam and Srikakulam districts.
Assam ..	In the plains district, in the Tribal Belts and Blocks constituted under the Assam Land and Reserve Regulations, land can be settled with only members belonging to the Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes and there are restrictions on transfer of such lands. In the Autonomous districts, some District Councils have made laws restricting ownership of land by non-tribals. The United Khasi Jaintia Hill District (Transfer of Land) Act, 1953 restricts transfer of land by a tribal to a non-tribal. Similar legislations have been made for the districts of Garo Hills and Mikir Hills.
Bihar ..	No transfer by certain tribal tenure holders, raiyats or under-raiyats is valid to any extent except as provided in the Bihar Tenancy Act, 1885. The Chhota Nagpur Tenancy Act, 1908 prohibits transfer of land from Scheduled Tribes to non-tribals. Similar provision is made under the Santhal Parganas Tenancy Act, 1949.
Gujarat and Maharashtra.	Under the provisions of the Bombay Land Revenue Code, notifications have already been issued in respect of all the Scheduled Areas in these two States attaching the condition of inalienability in respect of new land allotments. This notification, however, does not apply to lands allotted prior to the issue of the above mentioned notification.

State/Union Territory	Legislative Measures taken to prevent land alienation
Gujarat and Maharashtra— contd.	In the Vidarbha Region, under the provisions of the Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code, the right of the tenure holder belonging to a tribe which has been declared to be an aboriginal tribe is not transferable to a person not belonging to any of these tribes without the prior permission of the Collector. All the tribal communities accepted as Scheduled Tribes have not been declared as aboriginal tribes under the provisions of this Act. In the Marathwada Region of the Maharashtra State, provisions of the Hyderabad Land Revenue Act, 1317 Fasli are said to protect the interests of tribals in land and these are analogous to the provisions of Section 73-A of Bombay Land Revenue Code.
Kerala ..	.. There is no specific legislation preventing land alienation from tribals to non-tribals.
Madhya Pradesh ..	.. In the Mahakoshal Region, under the provisions of the Central Provinces Land Alienation Act, 1916, and the Madhya Pradesh Land Revenue Code, transfer of lands belonging to Scheduled Tribes to non-tribals is prohibited except with the permission of the Revenue Officer. Similar provisions are contained in Madhya Bharat Scheduled Areas (Allotment and Transfer of Lands) Regulation.
Madras ..	.. As per existing rules, lands that are assigned to tribals cannot be alienated to non-tribals except with the permission of the Revenue Divisional Officer.
Mysore ..	.. There is no legislation for the prevention of alienation of tribals' lands to non-tribals.
Orissa ..	.. The Orissa Scheduled Areas Transfer of Immoveable Property Regulation, 1956 provides for the control and regulation of transfers of land by Scheduled Tribes to non-tribals. Similarly, the Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1898 which applies to the old Sambalpur District except Khariar and the Central Provinces Tenancy Act, 1920, which applies to Khariar also restrict transfers of land by tribals to non-tribals.
Punjab ..	.. No special legislation has been made to prevent alienation of tribals' lands to non-tribals.

State/Union Territory	Legislative Measures taken to prevent land alienation
Rajasthan Provisions have been made for preventing alienation of tribals' lands, in the Rajasthan Tenancy Act, 1955.
West Bengal	.. Certain tribal tenure holders, under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, and the Land Reforms Act, 1955, and the Chhota Nagpur Tenancy Act, 1908, have been prohibited from transferring their lands to non-tribals without the previous permission of the Collector.
Himachal Pradesh No legislative or executive measures have been taken to prevent alienation of tribals' lands to non-tribals.
Manipur The Assam Land Revenue Regulation and the Land Reforms Act prohibit transfer of land from tribals to non-tribals.

APPENDIX X

(See para 12·21 of Chapter 12)

Summary of the replies to the Questionnaire by the Central/State Governments and Administrations of Union Territories regarding Forest Policy

Central Government—The Government of India in the Ministry of Food and Agriculture in their reply stated as under:—

“In fact rights and concessions are too many and too freely exercised. Greater regulation and control is desirable not only for the protection of the forest, but generally from all points of view inclusive of soil conservation purposes etc.”

Andhra Pradesh—There is at present no difficulty. Steps are taken with a view to provide facilities to the Scheduled Tribes in the matter of procuring raw materials for cottage industries, fuel for domestic consumption, timber for construction of huts, minor forest produce, etc.

Assam—Unclassed forests in the Autonomous Districts are under the control of the District Councils and, therefore, no difficulties are experienced by the tribal people to get their requirements of forest produce such as timber, thatch, bamboos, etc. for their domestic purposes as well as for cottage industries. For extraction of various produce from State Reserve Forests, both in the hills and plains, however, permits are required but no difficulties are experienced by the tribals in getting them.

Bihar—The present laws do not prevent but only regulate removal of forest produce. Control always implies inconvenience and to that extent, of course, inconvenience is caused to the tribals.

Gujarat—The Scheduled Tribes, enjoy rights, privileges and concessions through which most of their requirements of fire-wood and small timber are generally met with. In addition to this, bamboos are granted at concessional rates for cottage industries like basket making, etc. They are also granted free timber for building houses, agricultural implements, etc. The present laws and rules do not, in any way, hinder the uplift and development of the tribals.

Kerala—The present forest laws and regulations do not hamper the progress and development of the tribals.

Madhya Pradesh—The forest laws and regulations are necessary for purpose of conservation of forest and prevention of wastefulness.

Madras—The progress and development is not hampered. On the other hand, concession and rights have been allowed to the hill tribes in the matter of grazing, collection of fodder, fuel and other items of forest produce required by them for their bonafide use.

Maharashtra—The present forest laws and regulations do not seem to have hampered the progress and development of industries among the tribals.

The requirements of local population in regard to raw materials for their industries are adequately met under the concessions given at present to forest dwellers. In many cases the forest produce is given free to them. Fuel for domestic purposes is given free while raw materials for their housing are given at concessional rates.

Mysore—It is admitted that the present forest laws and regulations are rigorous from tribals' view point. However, everything depends upon the execution.

Orissa—They observe that liberalised provisions should be made in the present forest laws and regulations so that forest co-operatives could be formed by the tribals and individual tribals could obtain these raw materials without much difficulty.

Punjab—As there is no forest growth in Lahaul and Spiti, they say that the question does not arise.

Rajasthan—To preserve forest, it was necessary to restrict some of the activities of the tribals but to meet their domestic and agricultural requirements, they say, liberal concessions have been given.

West Bengal—The present forest laws intend regularisation of off-takes from the forest and what is extractable after successfully practising scientific forestry is allowed. After taking over the forests from private management, use of forest produce by the tribals has been restricted so that future generations may get adequate supply.

NEFA—The problem does not arise as under the existing laws, the tribals can extract all kinds of forest produce for the requirements without any let or hindrance. Hunting and fishing are also freely allowed.

Tripura—The tribal people are allowed to collect free of duty, after obtaining necessary permit, forest produce like sun-grass, unclassified timber and bamboos for their domestic consumptions.

Himachal Pradesh and Manipur—The present laws and regulations do not hamper progress and development.

APPENDIX XI

(See para 12·46 of Chapter 12)

Scheme suggested by Shri K. P. Sagreiya, President, Forest Research Institute and Colleges, Government of India, Dehra Dun, for providing the people living in the Scheduled Areas permanent employment on forest operations and in forest industries.

The Commission desired to know if a scheme based on the utilisation of forest products could be formulated in any Scheduled Areas which could give the people permanent employment on forest operation and in forest industries.

This should be possible in certain forests such as those of Bastar in Madhya Pradesh. There are extensive forests in this district of sal with a large proportion of miscellaneous species and some teak. The present crop is old and contains mostly malformed trees. The value yield is hardly Rs. 250/- per acre. The forests are pre-eminently suited for the growth of teak, the most valuable timber of India. Plantations of teak worked on a rotation of 60 years when in full bearing will give very substantially higher returns. The existing growth can be felled say at the rate of 500 acres per year and, if a saw-mill is established all large sized timber trees of sal and other species could be converted into beams and scantlings and exported as such or else used in a wood-working factory for making furniture and bullock carts. The un-utilised debris could be utilised for making hardboards. The area could then be planted with teak. The local population which could be housed in model villages could be kept employed all the year long on construction and maintenance of roads, exploitation of forests, conversion of timber and its utilisation for making hard-boards, in preparing the planting site, on nurseries for raising stock of teak stumps and later on planting and weeding the plantations and tending the young trees.

Besides this other minor forest produce such as bamboos, could be utilised in cottage industries. Collection of harra, leaves of mahul, etc. could also be organised on a co-operative basis.

After an area is selected a detailed scheme could be worked out.
